ethics education in the Sydney Medical Program (MD). Scholars from all areas of bioethics are encouraged to apply, however we are specifically looking to hire one person with expertise in clinical ethics and one person with experience in empirical bioethics (who may or may not be the same person).

Your key responsibilities will be to:

- contribute to outstanding teaching and learning outcomes in Sydney Health Ethics
- develop a competitively funded program of original research (either independently or as part of a team)
- contribute to the engagement and administrative activities of Sydney Health Ethics and the Sydney School of Public Health
- contribute to and help shape the strategic goals of Sydney Health Ethics and the Sydney School of Public Health

We reiterate the EEO statement below and strongly encourage applications from people of culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, women, people with disabilities, people who identify as LGBTIQ+, and people of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent.

About you

- doctorate or PhD in a relevant field
- demonstrated experience and success in designing and delivering bioethics teaching
- developing research profile evidenced by original, high-quality and independent research, with a track record of extramural research funding an advantage
- demonstrated capacity to communicate effectively across a range of forums and to work collegially, collaboratively, and inclusively with fellow scholars and professional staff
- developing network of relationships with key academic and professional institutions, partners, and stakeholders
- evidence of developing capacity to contribute to governance, administration, or community engagement and impact

To keep our community safe, please be aware of our COVID safety precautions which form our conditions of entry for all staff, students and visitors coming to campus.

Pre-employment checks

Your employment is conditional upon the completion of all role required pre-employment or background checks in terms satisfactory to the University. Similarly, your ongoing employment is conditional upon the satisfactory maintenance of all relevant clearances and background check requirements. If you do not meet these conditions, the University may take any necessary step, including the termination of your employment.
