Job Description

Overview

Tufts University Occupational Health Services (OHS) provides work-related medical services to university faculty, staff, and employees, with the goal of preventing and minimizing health risks. Student Health Services supports the educational mission of Tufts University by providing accessible and high-quality health care for a highly diverse student population. The Grafton campus of Tufts University is home to the Cumming's School of Veterinary Medicine at Tufts University and the Tufts New England Regional Biosafety Laboratory. On the Grafton campus, Tufts OHS will provide occupational health services and certain episodic care services to faculty and staff and students using a unique blended model responding to the needs of Tufts' entire Grafton community. A mission of Tufts OHS on the Grafton campus is the provision of high-quality health care for a diverse student, faculty, and staff population, and we strive to maintain the physical, psychological, and social health of the community. Tufts OHS is committed to providing a safe and welcoming environment which is inclusive and culturally informed. Our values are confidentiality, respect for diversity, promotion of wellness, and continuous professional growth. NPs and RNs work as part of a multi-disciplinary team to meet the medical needs of students, faculty and staff including evaluation and treatment of work-related injuries, disease prevention, health promotion, and routine primary care services. Mental health services for students are provided by a vendor which provides a mix of on-site and virtual consultations.

What You'll Do

The senior nurse practitioner site manager provides medical care for faculty, staff, and students on Tufts University's Grafton campus and supports the development and operationalization of the vision of University's provision of outstanding and high-quality comprehensive health care services to the Grafton community. For faculty and staff, the NP provides work-related medical services such as health screens, vaccinations, work-related injury evaluations and treatment, case management, medical surveillance monitoring, and some episodic care. The senior NP provides basic primary care and episodic care for doctoral of veterinary medicine students and other graduate-level students on the Grafton campus.
