Job Description

Old Dominion University (ODU) invites nominations and applications for Clinical Assistant Professor of Athletic Training within the School of Rehabilitation Sciences in the Ellmer College of Health Sciences, appointment effective July 25, 2025. The position is an annual, 10-month full-time faculty position, though there are additional opportunities for paid summer course instruction.

The position expectations include instruction of courses in the professional athletic training program as the fourth faculty member of the program. The Master of Science of Athletic Training program graduated their first professional cohort in 2021 after 40 years of success hosting a post-professional Master's degree program. The appointee will also be responsible for collaboratively mentoring and contributing to MSAT student original research projects. Academic leadership opportunities are
