The Clinical Leadership & Management (CLM) Program is fully certified through the Association of University Professors of Health Administration (AUPHA) and is also Essential Employability Qualities (EEQ) certified through the QA Commons. It prepares future healthcare leaders and administrators to lead as communicators, thinkers & problem solvers, inquirers, and collaborators. The undergraduate program teaches applied skills in courses ranging from leadership to finance to human resources and culminates with a two-course practicum sequence in the health administration field. CLM graduates are prepared for entry-level careers in hospital/clinic operations, long-term care, patient experience, health nonprofits, policy, as well as graduate study. For more information about the CLM program, please visit: <https://www.uky.edu/chs/clinical-leadership-and-management>.

Primary duties of this faculty position will include teaching undergraduate healthcare business courses in the CLM program, such as evidence-based decision-making, healthcare finance, capstone, healthcare quality/safety, leadership, health information management, and other courses in the curriculum, depending on the candidate's area(s) of expertise. The faculty member will also participate in curriculum development, advising/mentoring students, student admission activities, and other activities as assigned by the Program Director or Department Chair. Additional duties include participating in service across the department, college, and university levels. Scholarship and research activities are expected and supported as appropriate for special title series. The anticipated effort for this position is Instruction 65-75%, Research/Scholarship 10-20%, Service 8-10%, Professional Development 2-5%, and will be considered based on an annual agreement.

Required Qualifications:

- A doctoral degree in health administration or a related field with relevant experience is required; ABD will be considered.
- Completion of an undergraduate or graduate degree in an AUPHA-certified/eligible or CAHME-accredited/eligible program.
- 2-3 years instructional experience in healthcare management coursework in post-secondary education (especially undergraduates)

Preferred Qualifications:

- Teaching experience in healthcare management, evidence-based decision-making, healthcare finance, capstone, leadership, healthcare quality/safety, health information management, or other healthcare business coursework.
- Demonstrated record of scholarship and/or research presentations and/or publications.
